PAT BOWLEN

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Pat Bowlen is entering his eighth season as the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Denver Broncos, and by any standard his regime has been one of the National Football League's most successful in this time frame. He has watched his Broncos play 10 postseason games in just seven years of ownership, with all regular and postseason contests sold out at Mile High Stadium.

His immediate goal heading into the 1991 campaign is to put the Broncos back on the track that saw them win American Football Conference championships in 1986, 1987, and 1989, making Denver the only AFC franchise to make three Super Bowl appearances in the 1980's. Without any question, he provides the organizational thrust that has served as the catalyst to Denver's record in that period.

Bowlen's Broncos represented the AFC in Super Bowls XXI (Pasadena), XXII (San Diego), and XXIV (New Orleans). In addition, Denver has had just one losing campaign during the past seven years, that being the very disappointing 5-11 season one year ago.

No one sets higher standards for the Broncos than Pat Bowlen himself, whose unchanging goal is to have his franchise annually regarded among the finest in pro football, with victory being the measuring stick for that success. Thus, the goal of Denver's dynamic and energetic chief executive remains firmly set on capturing the world championship that thus far has eluded the Mile High City.

The Broncos once again will pursue that objective from their new headquarters, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 59,000-square foot state-of-the-art office and training complex in Arapahoe County's Dove Valley location. The move into this new facility, which came on March 5, 1990, accomplished one of Bowlen's significant goals, that being to upgrade the Broncos' working facility and in so doing solidify the foundation for continued success.

Bowlen's seven years of ownership have resulted in the best home record (43-13) in the AFC. Bowlen's club is the only AFC franchise to have won 10 or more games five times in the last seven years and he finished second in The Sporting News 1987 Executive of the Year.

A member of the National Football League owner's Finance, Broadcasting, and Management Council Executive Committees, he presides over a franchise that has won four division crowns, and with the exception of an 8-8 campaign in 1987, has had regular season win totals of 13, 11, 11, 10, and 11. In fact, five of the six finest campaigns in team history have come during the Bowlen regime.

Pat Bowlen was introduced as the majority owner of the Denver Broncos on March 23, 1984, and that announcement triggered a new era in franchise history, one which has coupled success on the playing field with enthusiasm for an even brighter future.

He immediately put his own mark on the Broncos, establishing a solid administration and creating a positive atmosphere that was a major factor in the team's success both on and off the field.

The team responded with a 13-3 record and the American Football Conference Western Division championship in 1984, following that with an 11-5 record that just barely kept the Broncos out of the playoffs in 1985.

Meanwhile, Bowlen has seen the Broncos' consecutive home sell-out streak stretch to 163 straight regular and postseason non-strike games through the end of the 1990 campaign. The Broncos have led the NFL in actual in-stadium attendance over that six-year period. The Broncos have drawn over four million fans to Mile High Stadium from 1984-90, tops in the NFL.

Having established a solid foundation, Bowlen took a dramatic step towards the future during 1986 with the construction of 60 luxury Penthouse Suites atop the west side of Mile High Stadium.

Bowlen, 47, and the Bowlen family acquired 100% ownership of the Broncos in July of 1985. He is active in the day-to-day operations of the football club.

Bowlen has served as the Honorary Chairman of the Colorado Relay Classic to benefit St. Joseph's Hospital (1985-91), the Colorado Special Olympics (1986-91), and the 1989 Centennial Scholarship rally at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley. He was Co-Chairman of the Rose Medical Center Critical Care Campaign from 1986-89.

In addition, Bowlen was elected to the University of Denver Board of Trustees in 1987, and is active on several committees including Trustee Affairs and Buildings and Grounds, and has served on the Institutional Advancement committee and the Institutional Advancement/University Relations subcommittee.

Born in Prairie du Chien, Wis., he attended high school there and went on to the University of Oklahoma, where he earned degrees in both business (1965) and law (1968).

Bowlen has real estate and natural resource holdings in Alberta, as well as real estate holdings in Colorado, Arizona, and California.

Bowlen is also Chairman of the Board and Director of Hambledon Estates Limited, and Northern Development Company Limited of Edmonton.

An outstanding athlete in his own right, he has completed in the Ironman Triathlon — an event in which one must swim 2.4 miles, ride 112 miles on a bicycle, and run 26.2 miles, all consecutively — as well as in other triathlon races and several marathons.

Bowlen is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Young President's Organization, the Canadian and Edmonton Bar Associations, and the Law Society of Alberta. ■

DAN REEVES

VICE PRESIDENT/HEAD COACH

Coming into his second decade at the helm of the Denver Broncos, Vice President/Head Coach Dan Reeves has produced a record that includes four first and three second place finishes in the tough AFC Western Division, along with three Super Bowl appearances.

Whether judged by single season records or by his overall impact on the franchise since coming to Denver in 1981, Reeves stands in very exclusive company as one of the premier coaches in the National Football League.

The fourth youngest head coach in the NFL, he has a 90-61-1 regular season record, tied for fourth best in the league, and including playoff competition has won 96 games in his 10 campaigns, at 96-66-1. Only four active coaches have won more games than Reeves (Don Shula of Miami, Chuck Noll of Pittsburgh, Chuck Knox of Seattle, and Joe Gibbs of Washington).

Reeves has been in Denver longer than 25 of the other NFL mentors have been in their present cities. His 58-19 regular season home record from 1981-90 is the best in the NFL in that time. He has guided the Broncos to five postseason appearances, four division titles, and three conference crowns. He was the only AFC coach in the decade of the 1980s to lead his team to consecutive Super Bowl appearances. Reeves has led Denver to six 10-win seasons.

Reeves' teams have been in postseason play in five of the last eight years, and two of his teams have missed the playoffs despite records of 10-6-0 in 1981 and 11-5-0 in 1985.

In the last seven years Reeves has led the Broncos to five of the six best records in franchise history. Under Reeves, Denver has had winning streaks of 10 games once, eight once, and four eight times.

Reeves has played or coached in a record eight Super Bowls, including Super Bowls XXI in Pasadena (1986), XXII in San Diego (1987), and XXIV in New Orleans (1989) as the Broncos' head coach.

Reeves is in his 11th season as the Broncos' head coach, and in 1989 was named the AFC Coach of the Year (UPI, Kansas City 101 Club, Football News) for a campaign in which he led Denver to the Super Bowl for the third time in four years. Reeves is the first AFC coach to accomplish this feat since Shula led the Dolphins to consecutive Super Bowls in 1971-72-73.

Reeves is an intense competitor who has infused the Broncos with his own strength of character, an overwhelming factor on the 1986, 1987, and 1989 championship teams.

In 1987 Reeves led an injury-ridden team to a 10-4-1 record, best in the AFC, and its second straight AFC western Division title. The Broncos then posted playoff wins over Houston and Cleveland before meeting Washington in Super Bowl XXII.

Despite playing a shortened 15-game schedule in 1987, the Broncos set numerous single season team records, including most touchdowns scored (45, tying the 1985 and 1986 marks) and most yards of total offense (5,624). In addition, the Super Bowl-bound Broncos set new marks for most games scoring 20 or more points (12) and most consecutive games scoring 20 or more (seven, tied with three other years), as well as most consecutive games scoring 30 or more (six, tied with 1985 and 1986).

His 1986 Super Bowl team had the unique distinction of possessing a high-powered passing game while setting a new franchise record for lowest interception avoidance percentage (.029).

His 13-3 mark in 1984 gave Denver its highest victory total ever and garnered numerous Coach of the Year honors for the club's highly respected coach (Kansas City 101 Club, Pro Football Weekly, Sports Illustrated, Football News, College and Pro Football Newsweekly).

He also finished second in the UPI AFC Coach of the Year balloting in 1983, a season in which he paced the Broncos to a 9-7 record and a wild-card playoff berth.

Reeves was the youngest coach in the NFL when he assumed command of the club in 1981, guiding Denver to a 10-6 mark and barely missing a playoff berth in that inaugural campaign.

Reeves had been a member of the Dallas coaching staff since 1970, when he undertook the difficult dual role of player-coach for two seasons. He was a full-time offensive backfield coach in 1972, but spent 1973 in private business before rejoining the staff again as backfield coach in 1974.

In 1977 he took on the job of offensive coordinator, in which his duties included coaching the quarterbacks and wide receivers.

A native of Americus, Ga., Reeves began his pro career as a free agent running back for the Cowboys in 1965. He had been a quarterback as a college player at the University of South Carolina and has been inducted into South Carolina's Hall of Fame.

An all-purpose offensive back during his eight seasons (1966-72) on the Dallas roster, Reeves finished his career as the Cowboys' fifth all-time rusher, despite a series of injuries that slowed him in the latter stages of his career.

He rushed for 1,990 yards and 25 touchdowns and caught 129 passes for 1,693 yards and 17 TDs.

Because of his collegiate quarterback background, Reeves was also a respected halfback option passes, completing 30 such attempts for a pair of TDs during his career. In addition, he returned some punts and kickoffs along the way, and played in the NFL championship games of 1966, 1967, and 1970.

Reeves and his wife Pam are the parents of three children, son Lee and daughters Dana and Laura, and they have two granddaughters, Caitlin and Ashley. ■

JOHN BEAKE

GENERAL MANAGER

Well into his third decade in pro football, John Beake enters the 1991 campaign in his 13th year with the Denver Broncos and his seventh season as the National Football League club's General Manager. Overall, this marks John's 23rd season in professional football as either coach or administrator, as the Broncos couple success on the playing field with their 22nd consecutive sellout campaign at Mile High Stadium.

His most recent accomplishment has been to provide a key leadership role in the construction of and move into the team's new training facility, the Paul D. Bowlen Memorial Broncos Centre, a 59,000-square foot state-of-the-art complex in Arapahoe County. This project, several years in the planning stages, is the fulfillment of one of John's key goals as the Broncos' general manager.

John Beake has played an integral role in Denver being the only American Football Conference club to win three conference crowns and thus make three Super Bowl appearances (XXI, XXII, and XXIV) in the 1980's.

All of Denver's administrative department heads report directly to John Beake, who coordinates the activities of each department with the counsel of Pat Bowlen and Dan Reeves. Together, the three embody the major decision-making element of the Denver Broncos.

As General Manager, he is responsible for all day-to-day operations of club administration, with special concentration in the area of player contract negotiations, an area in which he has considerable experience. He also personally directs the Broncos' contractual relationships with the City of Denver, and local radio and television entities.

Currently John is working with the city on improvements at Mile High Stadium, including the two-year project of replacing the current stadium seats with theatre-style seating throughout the facility. Renovation of the Mile High Stadium press box was completed for the 1990 campaign. These projects represent the general manager's desire to improve the game-day experience at Mile High Stadium, as did the 1989 return of "Sunstar," the Broncos' mascot horse and rider team.

In addition to contract involvement, one of John's prime areas of interest is working closely with city and state representatives on a variety of community concerns. He served as the 1989 chairman of the Red Ribbon Campaign, a strong anti-drug association which works in conjunction with the Colorado Federation of Parents, is in his fifth year on the Board of Directors of Presbyterian/St. Luke's Healthcare Systems, and is serving his fourth year on the Denver Tourist and Convention Bureau's Board of Directors.

An avid skier, he is very active with the National Sports Center for the Disabled, which is run by the Winter Park Ski Resort. John is an annual participant in the Winter Park Pro-Am race to benefit the handicapped skiers program in Colorado.

As part of his continuing plan to broaden the team's community role and strengthen a family spirit within the club, he annually schedules such events as a night at the symphony and attendance at the Colorado Ballet's "Nutcracker" performance for the entire organization.

Beake has perhaps the broadest range of experience of any NFL general manager, the only one in the NFL who has coached championship teams on the pro, college, and high school levels, as well as having served in a wide range of administrative roles.

John was Assistant General Manager in 1984 and was the Broncos' Director of Football Operations the previous year, so his position at the helm of the club's administration is the culmination of a steady rise within the organization.

He joined the Broncos in 1979 as the Director of Pro Personnel and became Director of Player Personnel in 1981, having concentrated on the coaching aspects of the game prior to coming to Denver.

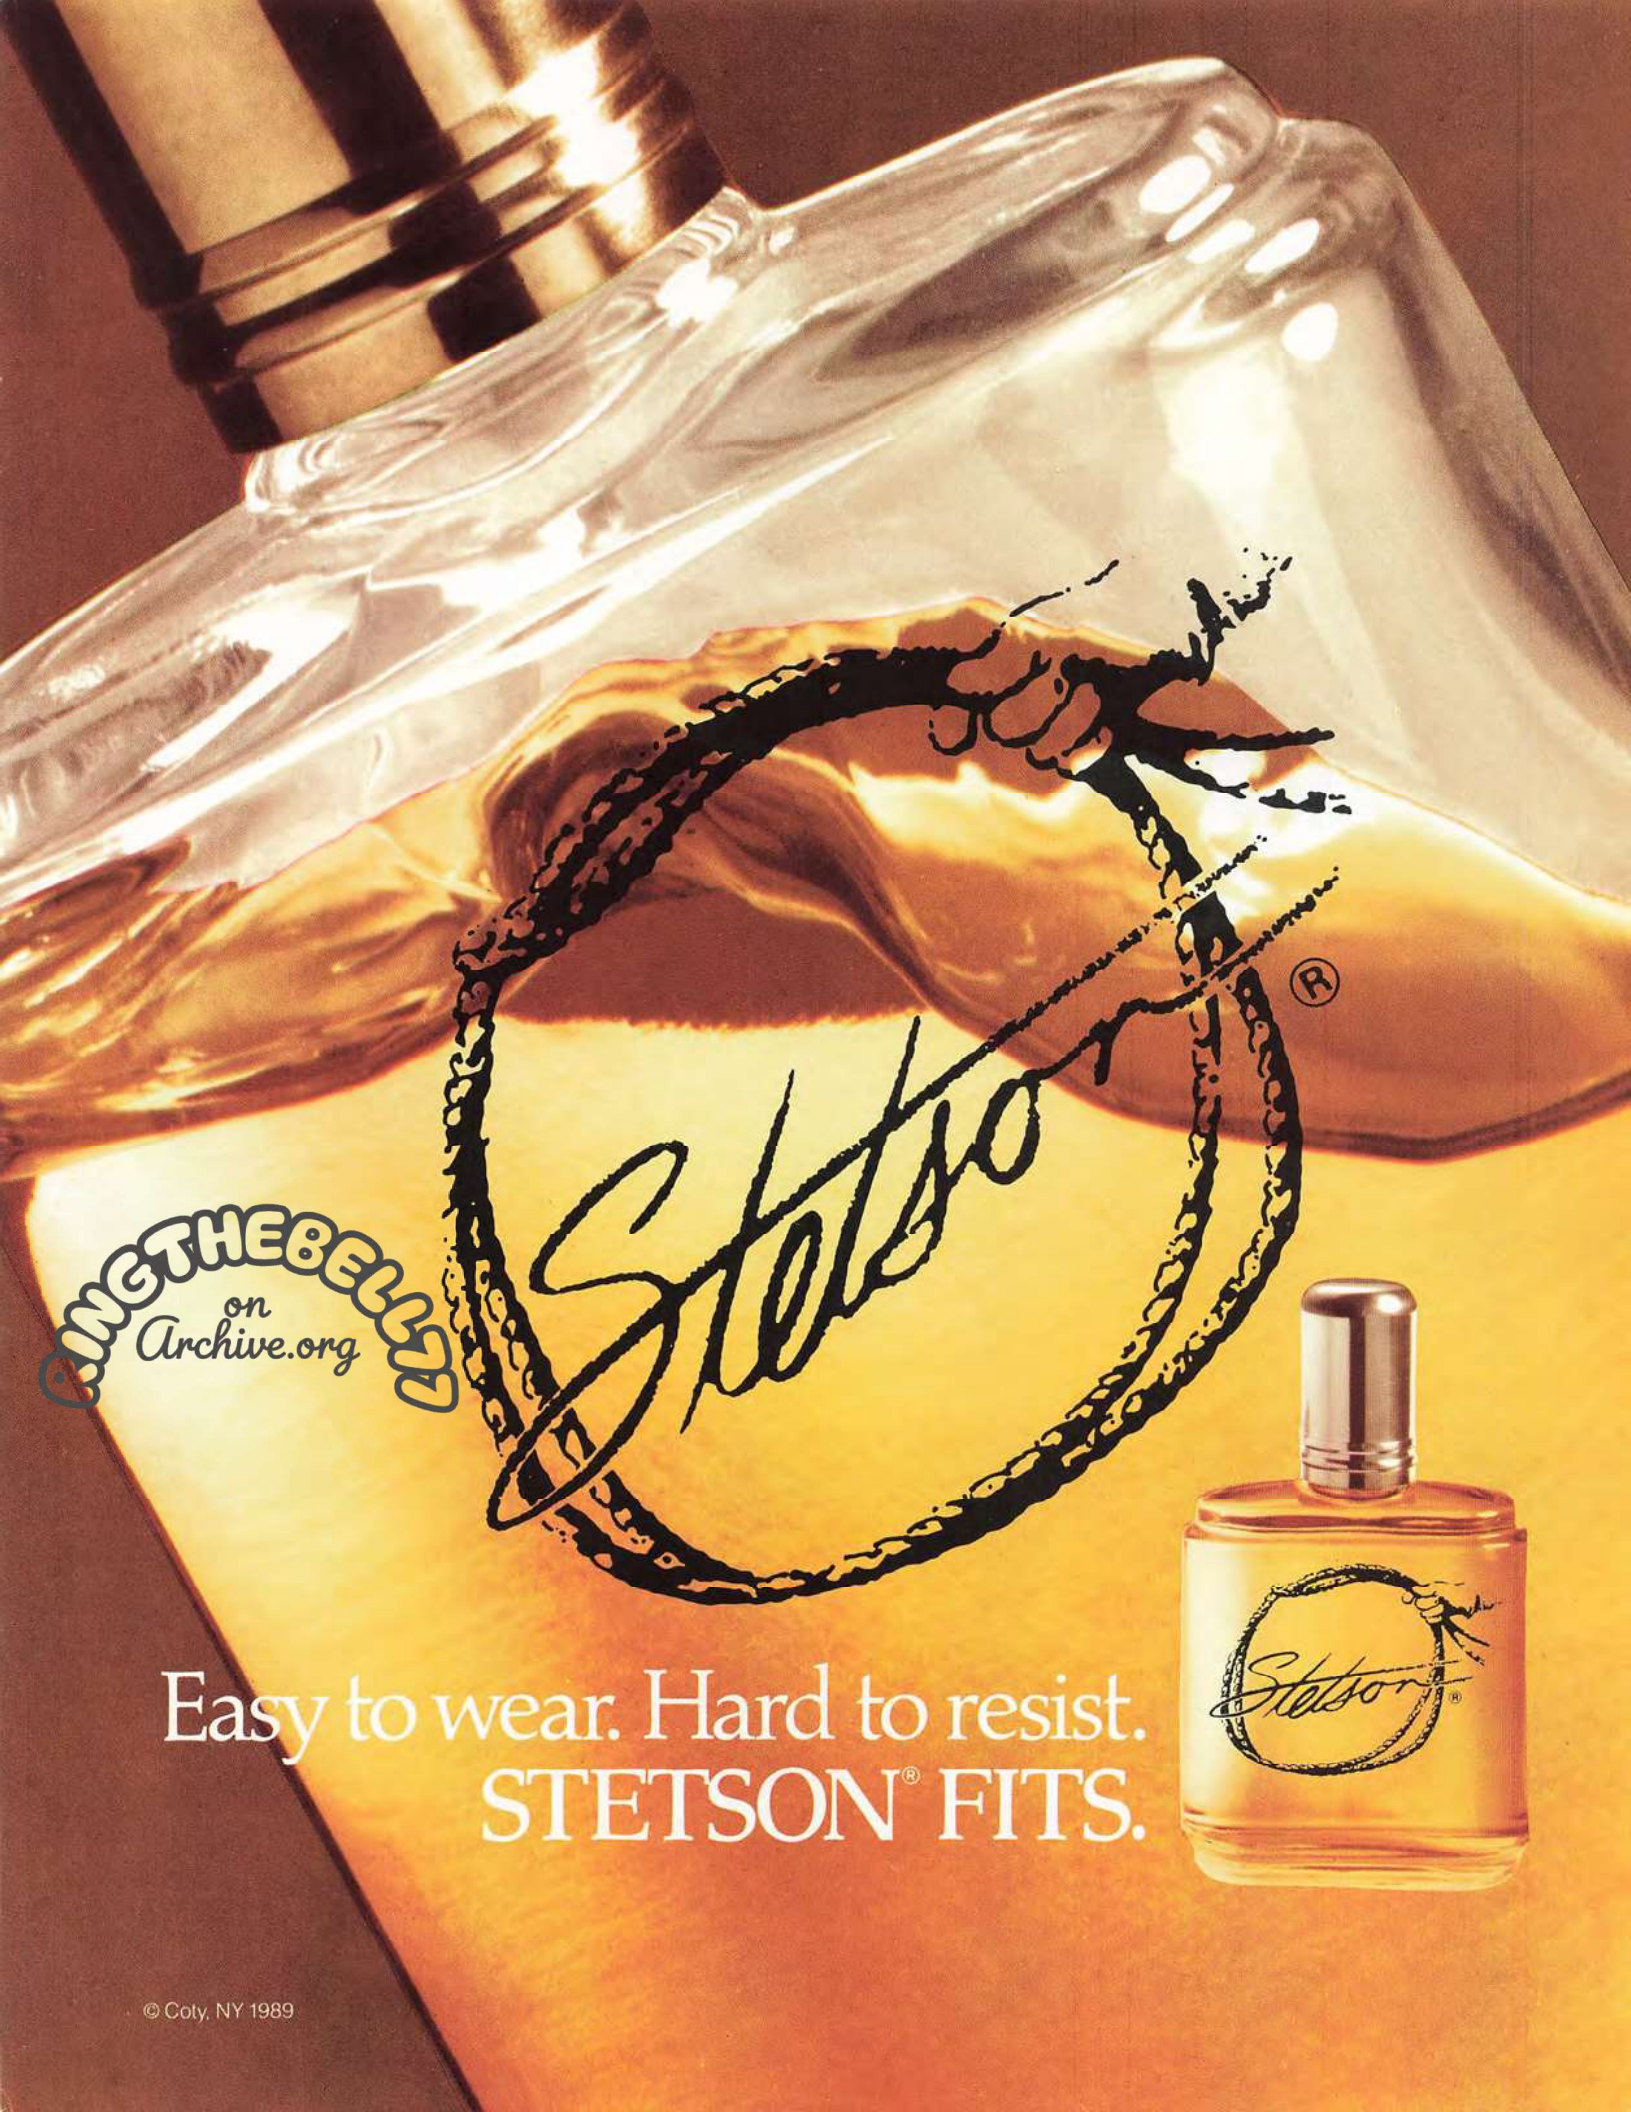

As assistant coach for the Kansas City Chiefs from 1968 through 1974, John was the offensive backfield coach for the Chiefs when they defeated the Minnesota Vikings to win Super Bowl IV in New Orleans. He also coached the running backs at New Orleans in 1976-77.

On the college level, he coached at Penn State in 1961-62 and was the offensive coordinator at Colorado State University in 1975.

Upon receiving his master's degree from Penn State in 1962, John coached for six years at the high school level, where his teams lost just four games.

He has a bachelor's degree from Trenton State College in New Jersey, in addition to his graduate degree from Penn State.

John and his wife, Marcia, have three children, Jerilyn, Chip, and Chris. ■

ASSISTANT COACHES

The Broncos head into the 1991 season with virtually the same staff of assistant coaches that has been with the club since the 1989 campaign. While the only new face is defensive line coach Ernie Stautner, the coaching assignments of some of the offensive staff have been shuffled.

Mike Shanahan returns to the position of Denver's offensive coordinator, a job he held from 1985-87. He will continue to tutor the Broncos' quarterbacks.

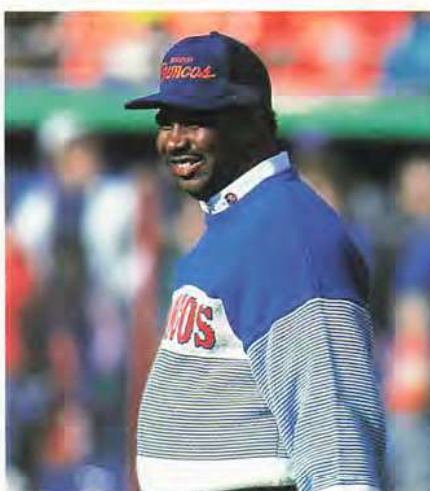

Shanahan's first stint with Denver began in 1984, when he joined the team as coach of the wide receivers. As offensive coordinator over the next three seasons, the Broncos' offense set team records in scoring, yards passing, and total offense, en route to two Super Bowls.

Shanahan served as head coach for the Los Angeles Raiders in 1988 through the first four games of 1989, and returned to the Broncos for the stretch run to Super Bowl XXIV.

He was the offensive coordinator and assistant head coach at the University of Florida in 1983, and had been that school's offensive coordinator since 1980. In 1983 the Gators set an NCAA record with 4,540 total yards, producing a 9-2-1 mark.

A native of Oak Park, Ill., Shanahan graduated from Eastern Illinois in 1974 and earned a master's degree there in 1975. He began his coaching career at Oklahoma in 1975-76, serving as an offensive backfield and receivers coach for the Sooners. Shanahan was Northern Arizona's offensive backfield coach in 1977 and was offensive coordinator at Eastern Illinois in 1977 and at Minnesota in 1979.

Mike and his wife Peggy have two children, son Kyle and daughter Krystal.

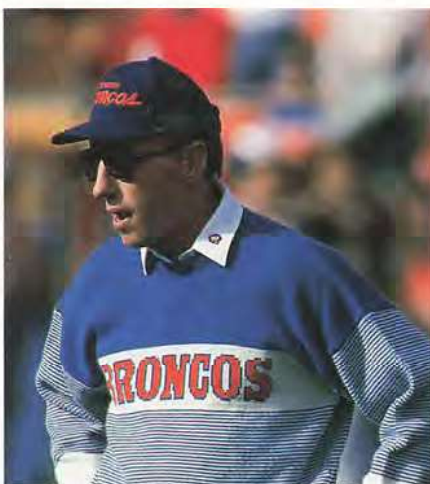

Mo Forte remains the Broncos' running backs coach, a position he has held since 1988. Prior to coming to Denver he was the head coach at North Carolina A&T from 1982-87. Forte led the Aggies to a 9-3 record and the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference championship in 1986.

Forte had been an assistant coach for 12 years in major college programs prior to his stint at North Carolina A&T. He coached at Arizona State (1980-81), Michigan State (1978-79), Duke (1976-77) and Minnesota (1970-75). The 1978 Michigan State squad won the Big Ten title and the 1981 Arizona State team set a number of Pac-10 records.

Forte was a starting running back at the University of Minnesota, from which he graduated with a bachelor's degree in education in 1971.

Mo has a daughter, Dawn.

George Henshaw will coach the Broncos' wide receivers this season after three campaigns in which he was in charge of the offensive line. Prior to coming to Denver Henshaw had 18 years of collegiate coaching experience, including eight as an offensive coordinator and one as head coach. He served in that capacity at the University of Tulsa in 1987.

He was on the Alabama staff in 1983-86 as offensive line coach and was the Crimson Tide's offensive coordinator in 1985-86. Alabama led the Southeastern Conference in a number of categories in Henshaw's four years there, including scoring offense (30.7 points per game) and total offense (424.1 yards per game).

Prior to joining the Alabama staff, Henshaw was at Florida State from 1976-82, serving as offensive line coach in the 1979-82 campaigns. He was a defensive line coach in his first three seasons with the Seminoles.

Henshaw graduated from the University of West Virginia and began coaching at his alma mater in 1970, remaining there until 1976.

He was an All-Southern Conference defensive tackle and was selected to the post-1950 all-time West Virginia squad.

George and his wife Kathleen have two sons, Michael and Matthew, and a daughter, Kerry.

Pete Mangurian in 1991 will serve as Denver's offensive line coach. He coached the Broncos' tight ends in 1988-90, while also working as an assistant offensive line coach.

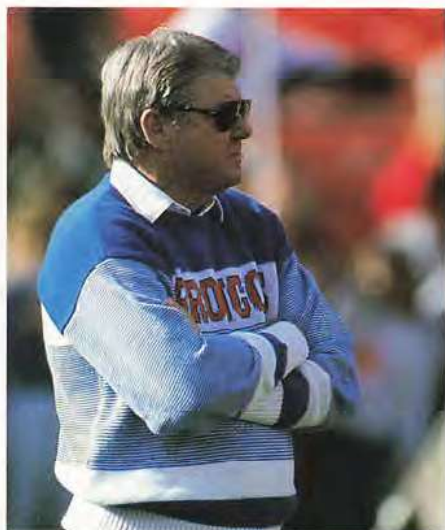

He came to Denver from Louisiana State, where he was the offensive line coach from 1984-87. In 1986 the Tigers set a school record for total offense and five offensive linemen earned postseason honors.

Before going to LSU, Mangurian had been a coach at Stanford (1982-83), New Mexico State (1981), and Southern Methodist (1979-80).

Born in Los Angeles and raised in Sherman Oaks, Calif., Mangurian graduated with a bachelor's degree in political science from LSU in 1976. He played defensive tackle for the Tigers for four seasons.

Pete and his wife Amy have a daughter, Lauren.

Harold Richardson, the Broncos' special teams coach in 1989-90, will add the tight ends to his coaching responsibilities in 1991.

He came to the team from Colorado State, where he was defensive coordinator in 1987 and 1988. Prior to that he served as receivers and special teams coach with the New Orleans Saints (1981-85).

Working on the college level, Richardson coached at North Texas State, Texas Christian, and Southern Methodist, where he began his coaching career as a graduate assistant in 1971.

A native of Houston, Tex., Richardson earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Southern Methodist in 1968.

Harold and his wife Ramona have a son, Blake Lee.

Wade Phillips enters 1991 in his third season as Denver's defensive coordinator. He served in the same capacity with Philadelphia in 1986-88. Under Phillips in 1989 the Broncos led the NFL in fewest points allowed (226) and fewest touchdowns allowed (25).

Prior to working in Philadelphia, Phillips was the defensive coordinator in New Orleans from 1981-85 and was the interim head coach for the final four games of the 1985 campaign. Under Phillips the Saints led the NFC in defense in 1983 and had the NFL's top pass defense in 1983 and 1984. Phillips spent five seasons with the Houston Oilers, coaching the linebackers (1976) and defensive line (1977-80).

He began his coaching career at the University of Houston, his alma mater, in 1969 and then coached at Orange (Tex.) HS for three years before moving on to Oklahoma State (1973-74) and Kansas (1975).

The son of former NFL coach Bum Phillips, Wade was born in Orange, Tex. and attended Portes Neches-Groves HS. He went on to be a three-year starter at linebacker at Houston.

Wade and his wife Laurie have two children, Tracey and Wesley.

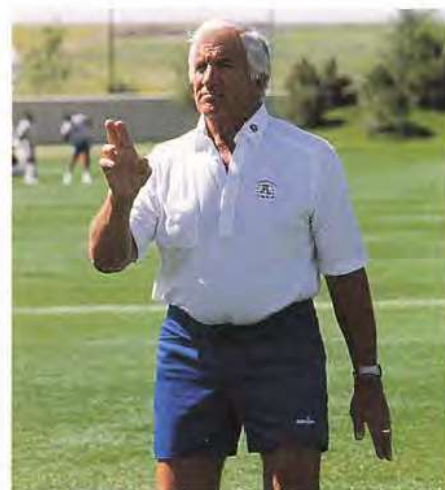

Mike Nolan is in his fifth season overall with the Broncos and his third as coach of the team's linebackers. In 1988 he was in charge of the coverage units of the Broncos' special teams and was an assistant linebacker coach. He coached the special teams in his first year in Denver.

Nolan served as a linebacker coach at Louisiana State in 1986 after two seasons at Rice University. He coached at Stanford in 1982-83 after a year as a graduate assistant at the University of Oregon, his alma mater.

Nolan was a four-year letterman at Oregon and following graduation, he attended the Broncos' 1981 training camp as a free agent.

Mike and his wife Kathy have a son, Michael, and two daughters, Jennifer and Laura.

Ernie Stautner joins the Broncos as coach of the defensive line in 1991. The Pro Football Hall of Famer was the Dallas Cowboys' defensive line coach from 1966-88, and was that club's defensive coordinator from his third season on.

In 1990 Stautner was the head coach of the Arena Football League Dallas Texans, and was named coach of the year while leading his team to the league championship game.

Stautner began his coaching career as a player-coach for the Steelers in 1963, and became a full-time coach with them in 1964. He was on the Washington Redskins' staff in 1965.

Stautner was an All-NFL defensive end and tackle with Pittsburgh, where he played for 15 years (1950-64). A veteran of nine Pro Bowls, he was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1969, his first year of eligibility, and was named to the Steelers' 50th anniversary team.

Born in Cham, Bavaria, Stautner grew up in Albany, N.Y. Following a hitch in the Marine Corps, he enrolled at Boston College and developed into a two-way star.

Ernie has three children, Joe, Terri, and Carol.

Charlie Waters is in his fourth year in Denver and his third as coach of the team's defensive backs. He was an assistant coach with that unit in 1988 in addition to coaching the kick return units of the Broncos' special teams.

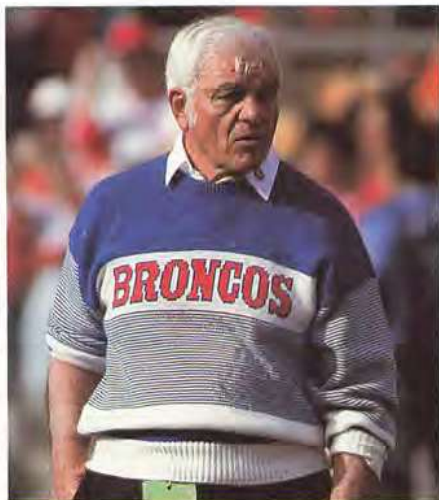

Prior to coming to Denver Waters worked as a television sports commentator and in private business in Dallas.

Waters played for the Dallas Cowboys from 1970-81, missing the 1979 campaign due to injury. He played in the Pro Bowl in 1976, 1977, and 1987, and was voted All-NFL in 1977 and 1978. He became the Cowboys' starting strong safety in 1976 after spending his first six seasons as a cornerback and safety.

Waters was superb in the playoffs with the Cowboys and he holds the NFL career playoff record for most interceptions with nine. He holds an NFC Divisional Playoff game record with three thefts against Chicago (12/26/77), and he is third in Dallas history with 41 career interceptions in regular season play.

Waters played college football at Clemson and was elected to the South Carolina Athletic Hall of Fame in 1980.

Charlie and his wife Rosie have three sons, Cody, Ben, and Cliff.

Working in the area of quality control is Marvin Bass, who is entering his 10th season with Denver and eighth as special assistant. He was Denver's head offensive line coach in 1984.

Bass has 48 years of experience as a coach and administrator in college and pro football. He came to the Broncos from the Canadian Football League, where he was the defensive coordinator for the Calgary Stampeders in 1978-81. He began his career with the NFL Buffalo Bills (1969-71) and spent two seasons with the World Football League Birmingham Americans, including one as head coach. After the WFL ceased operations, Bass returned to the Bills as Director of Pro Scouting.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Bass was an All-American at William and Mary in 1942. He went into college coaching following graduation, joining the staff of his alma mater in 1944. In addition to William and Mary, Bass coached on the college level at North Carolina, Georgia Tech, the University of Richmond, and at South Carolina, where his starting quarterback was Dan Reeves.

Marvin and his wife Audrey have one son, Randy, and two grandsons, Lee and Rhett.

Al Miller has been Denver's strength and conditioning coach since 1985, coming to the Broncos from the University of Alabama. His offseason conditioning programs have been instrumental in the Broncos' recent successes, with over 60% of all veterans participating on a full-time basis each offseason at the team's Denver headquarters.

Miller held a similar post at Alabama from 1982-84, after stints at Northeast Louisiana (1981), and Mississippi (1980). At Northwestern Louisiana State in 1974-78, Miller was a line-backer and strength coach, and coached on the junior high level from 1969-73.

A native of El Dorado, Ark., Miller received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Northeast Louisiana.

Al and his wife Janis have a son, Carey Brian, and a daughter, Lisa.

Barney Chavous is in his third season on Reeves' staff, and as Defensive Assistant will work along with Stautner on the defensive line and will assist Miller in the weightroom. Chavous was a coaching intern with Denver in 1988.

A defensive end with Denver from 1973-85, Chavous is second in team history with 72 quarterback sacks. He was the Broncos' second-round draft choice in 1973 and is one of only four people to play in 13 or more seasons with Denver.

Chavous was all-conference and defensive most valuable player at South Carolina State, where he was a three-year starter.

A native of Aiken, S.C., Barney and his wife Odessa have four children, sons Shedric and Barney Amon, and daughters Jasmine and Nikeya Monique.

Joe DeCamillis is in his first season in charge of defensive quality control and his third year overall with the Broncos. His position involves monitoring Denver's defensive play via statistical analysis and video study. This procedure helps a team to determine its relative effectiveness so that weekly adjustments can be made during the season. He will also assist Richardson with the special teams.

DeCamillis was an All-American wrestler as a senior at the University of Wyoming, graduating in 1987 with a degree in secondary education. He wrestled for the Cowboys from 1983-87, and twice earned All-WAC honors.

A native of Arvada, Colo., DeCamillis was an all-state quarterback and wrestler at Arvada High School.

Joe and his wife Dana have two daughters, Caitlin and Ashley. ■

NEWCOMERS

SCOTT BEAVERS, GUARD, 6-3, 260, 2ND YEAR, GEORGIA TECH

Beavers played in two games with Denver last year, although he was with the team for most of the season ... he was on the inactive list for six games and spent three weeks on the practice squad ... Beavers joined the Broncos as a rookie free agent out of Georgia Tech.

CHARLES DIMRY, CORNERBACK, 6-0, 175, 4TH YEAR, NEVADA-LAS VEGAS

Dimry signed as a Plan B free agent with Denver in March 1991 ... he came to the NFL as Atlanta's fifth-round draft choice in 1988 ... last season with the Falcons he posted career highs in interceptions (five) and tackles (55).

PAUL GREEN, TIGHT END, 6-3, 230, 3RD YEAR, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Green was on Denver's active roster for the final two weeks of the season last year but was inactive for both games ... drafted in the eighth round in 1989 by Denver, he saw his only action of that season in Super Bowl XXIV.

CRAWFORD KER, GUARD, 6-3, 285, 7TH YEAR, FLORIDA

Ker came to Denver in March 1991 as a Plan B free agent from Dallas ... the Cowboys' fifth-round pick in 1985, he started at right guard in 1986-89 and at left guard in 1990 ... Ker has started 74 of 79 games played in his career.

JEFF MILLS, LINEBACKER, 6-3, 238, 2ND YEAR, NEBRASKA

Mills was acquired late in the 1990 season off of waivers ... he was San Diego's third-round pick last year, and after playing in five games with the Chargers, he was put on injured reserve ... when they attempted to activate him via waivers on Dec. 21 he was claimed by the Broncos.

BRENT PARKINSON, GUARD/TACKLE, 6-5, 267, 1ST YEAR, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Parkinson will compete at the right tackle and right guard positions in 1991 ... he joined the Broncos as a rookie free agent last year and spent the entire campaign on injured reserve.

ROBERT PERRYMAN, RUNNING BACK, 6-2, 233, 5TH YEAR, MICHIGAN

Perryman signed with Denver as a Plan B free agent on April 1 ... he was New England's third-round pick in 1987, and played with them through the eighth week of the 1990 season, when he was waived and signed with Dallas ... in his career Perryman has rushed for 1,294 yards and nine TDs and has caught 64 passes for 430 yards.

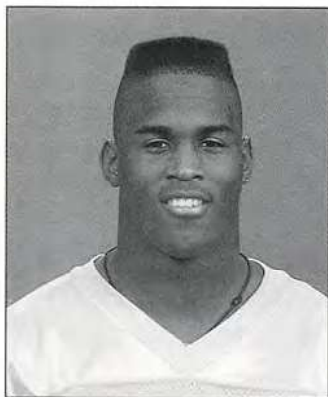

TIM STALLWORTH, WIDE RECEIVER, 5-10, 185, 2ND YEAR, WASHINGTON STATE

Stallworth was on the Broncos' practice squad last year from Nov. 20 to Dec. 28 ... he was activated to play in the final game of the year, vs. Green Bay ... he was drafted last year by the Rams in the sixth round and also spent some time with Detroit.

SEASON PREVIEW

Following a disappointing 1990 campaign, the Denver Broncos will begin the road back to playoff contention with a fifth-place schedule, but without the national television attention that has accompanied the team over the past several years.

Denver will play the AFC East's fifth-place squad, New England, twice and will also take on the National Conference's last-place finishers, Minnesota and Detroit. Another feature of the Broncos' schedule pits them against all four AFC Central teams.

In regular season play, Denver will appear on national television just three times, in Sunday night contests against the Vikings and Steelers, and as part of an NBC doubleheader against the Raiders.

The Broncos open preseason play on Saturday, July 27 in the Hall of Fame Game in Canton, Ohio against the Detroit Lions. While in Canton, the Broncos will help in honoring long-time assistant coach Stan Jones, who is being inducted into the Hall for a sterling 12-year career with Chicago and Washington. The game, which will be shown on ABC-TV, occurs nine days short of the 25th anniversary season of Denver's 13-7 preseason win over the Lions in 1967, the first victory of any kind by an AFL team over a squad from the NFL.

On Friday, Aug. 2 the Broncos take on Indianapolis at home and five nights later, on Wednesday, Aug. 7, they play in San Francisco against the 49ers. That quick turnaround is followed by a long break between games, as Denver's next contest isn't until Monday, Aug. 19 at home against Miami. The final tune-up for the regular season pits the Broncos against Phoenix on Friday, Aug. 23.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 1 CINCINNATI BENGALS (NBC) 2:00 MDT

Denver's 1991 season opener against the Bengals will match up the perennial AFC powers for the first time since 1986. The Broncos lead the series, which began in 1968, nine wins to six. Other series notes show that Denver has won three straight games and four of the last five. The home team has won all but four series contests, with Denver capturing the last road win en route to its first Super Bowl in 1977.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (11/30/86)

— The Broncos narrowly defeated Cincinnati 34-28 on the strength of John Elway's three touchdown passes and a freak play that added to the mystique of Mile High Stadium. Late in the fourth quarter, with the hard-charging Bengals facing a third-and-10 from the Broncos 37, Boomer Esiason moved into the shotgun formation for the first time in the game. Due to the roar from the Denver fans, center Dave Rimington couldn't hear Esiason and snapped the ball past his unprepared quarterback. Esiason fell on the ball on the Bengals' 40, and the Broncos held on to the victory.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 8 at Los Angeles Raiders (NBC) 2:00 MDT

In the first of three consecutive games against AFC West foes, the Broncos travel to Los Angeles to take on the Raiders, last year's division champion. Denver has lost its last three games in the L.A. Coliseum and will be looking for its first win ever against Raider head coach Art Shell. The Raiders have a home record of 22-9 over the Broncos and are 6-3 since moving to Los Angeles in 1982.

LAST TIME IN LOS ANGELES (9/9/90) — Despite a "shutout" by Denver's defense, the Raiders were able to grab a 14-9 victory in the 1990 season opener. Playing in temperatures in the high 90s, the Broncos offense could only manage three field goals, although that was nine points more than the Raiders offense produced. Two Bronco turnovers, a fumble and an interception, were returned for touchdowns by an opportunistic Raider defense, lifting them to victory.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 15 SEATTLE SEAHAWKS (NBC) 2:00 MDT

The Broncos return home in week three to face the Seahawks, who have not found Mile High Stadium to be a very friendly place. Denver's Northwest rival has won only three of 13 games on the road against the Broncos, the last time in 1988.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (9/23/90)

— David Treadwell kicked a 25-yard field goal with 5:46 left in overtime to give the Broncos a 34-31 win over Seattle. Bobby Humphrey gained 129 yards and John Elway completed 30 of 40 passes for 297 yards and three TDs. Denver led 28-14 at halftime, but the Seahawks were able to tie the game at 31-31 with less than three minutes left in the fourth quarter. The Broncos escaped defeat twice when Seattle kicker Norm Johnson missed a field goal attempt at the end of regulation and an attempt in overtime.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 22 SAN DIEGO CHARGERS (NBC) 2:00 MDT

The Chargers, Denver's week four opponent, have had even more trouble than the Seahawks playing in Denver's thin air. Since San Diego's last Mile High victory, a 9-3 thriller in 1986, the Broncos have won four straight by an average score of 24-6.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (12/16/90)

— Denver snapped a six-game losing streak with a 16-10 win over the Chargers. John Elway connected with Mike Young for two touchdowns, David Treadwell kicked two field goals, including one for a career-high 49 yards, and the Bronco defense held the powerful San Diego ground game to just 92 yards. The win was of particular interest to a Denver deejay who had weathered snow, cold, and strep throat while sitting on a billboard for the duration of Denver's month-long losing skid.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 29

at Minnesota Vikings (TNT) 6:00 MDT

The Broncos enter the second quarter of the 1991 campaign in a nationally televised Sunday night game in the Metrodome, site of Super XXVI. In this stretch of the season Denver will play three out of four games on the road, and the first two occur on artificial turf. The Broncos have never won a game, regular or preseason, in Minnesota, and trail in the all-time regular season series by three games to two.

LAST TIME IN MINNESOTA

(11/4/90) — Turnovers and missed opportunities by the Broncos helped Minnesota overcome a 16-0 second quarter deficit to win 27-22 last year. The Broncos dominated almost every phase of the game, even netting seven quarterback sacks, but three Viking interceptions, including one for a touchdown by Joey Browner, turned a fine effort into a loss.

SUNDAY, OCT. 6

at Houston Oilers

(NBC) 11:00 a.m. MDT

Denver in week six takes on the Oilers in the Astrodome, where the Broncos haven't played since 1983, when quarterback Steve DeBerg directed a 26-14 Denver victory. Houston leads this series between original AFL teams 18-10-1. The last regular season contest between the two teams resulted in a 40-10 win for the Oilers in the first game of 1987 to feature "replacement players" during the player's strike.

LAST TIME VS. HOUSTON

(1/10/88) — The Broncos advanced to the AFC Championship Game for the second season in a row with a 34-10 playoff game victory over the Oilers in Denver. The Broncos were led on offense by Elway, who threw for 259 yards and two TDs, both to tight end Clarence Kay, and wide receiver Vance Johnson, who caught four passes for 105 yards. Karl Mecklenburg and Mark Haynes both picked off Warren Moon passes deep in Bronco territory.

SUNDAY, OCT. 20

KANSAS CITY CHIEFS (NBC) 2:00 MDT

Following a bye week, Denver returns to Mile High Stadium to face the Chiefs, one of the new powers in the NFL. Kansas City hasn't won in Denver since 1982, but four of the last seven games have been decided by three points or less.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (9/17/90)

— A 49-yard pass on fourth-and-10 from Elway to Vance Johnson set up David Treadwell's game winning field goal as time expired in a Monday night 24-23 Bronco win last season. Denver led 21-9 going into the fourth quarter, but Steve DeBerg connected with Stephone Paige for touchdowns of 16 and 83 yards to put Kansas City up 23-21 with less than two minutes remaining.

SUNDAY, OCT. 27

at New England Patriots

(NBC) 11:00 a.m. MST

The Broncos close out the first half of the season in Foxboro, Mass., against the Patriots, whom they haven't played on the road since 1980. These two teams played the very first regular season AFL game in 1960 and Denver now has a slim 14-12 series lead. Including the Broncos' 1986 playoff win at Mile High, the home team has won the last 10 games in the series, and Denver has won four straight. The Patriots' new head coach, Dick McPherson, was on the Broncos' staff in the '60s, and three members of his defensive staff, Joe Collier, Stan Jones, and Myrel Moore, were the architects of the Broncos' famed Orange Crush defense.

LAST TIME IN NEW ENGLAND

(9/29/80) — A tough Patriot defense held the Broncos to just eight first downs and 62 yards passing in a 23-14 win. Denver led 14-10 early in the third quarter, but two New England field goals and 45-yard scoring strike from Steve Grogan to Stanley Morgan put the game away.

SUNDAY, NOV. 3

PITTSBURGH STEELERS

(ESPN) 6:00 MST

Denver meets Pittsburgh in a nationally televised Sunday night contest in week nine. While the Broncos haven't been scheduled against Cincinnati or Houston of the AFC Central on a regular basis, they play Pittsburgh in the regular season for the fourth consecutive season. The Broncos are 4-2 against the Steelers in regular season play under Dan Reeves.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (10/14/90)

— Pittsburgh overcame a 17-7 deficit, scoring 27 unanswered points in a 34-17 win over the Broncos last year. While the Steelers were able to score three touchdowns in the second half, the closest the Broncos got to the end zone was Pittsburgh's 28, where they promptly lost a fumble.

SUNDAY, NOV. 10

LOS ANGELES RAIDERS

(NBC) 2:00 MST

There is nothing like a visit from the Raiders to get Mile High Stadium shaking. Denver's long-despised AFC West rival has won the last three games against the Broncos, their longest win streak in the series since 1982-83, and the two teams have split the last four games in Denver.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (12/2/90)

— The Raiders deflected David Treadwell's game-tying field goal attempt with just seconds left in the fourth quarter, giving Los Angeles a 23-20 win and sending Denver to its fifth straight loss. Denver trailed only 14-13 early in the final period when Bo Jackson gained 62 of his game-high 117 yards on one touchdown run, which was followed minutes later by a Jeff Jaeger field goal. John Elway brought the Broncos within striking range with his second TD pass, an eight-yard toss to Mike Young, and after a Raider punt, Denver drove to the L.A. 24 for Treadwell's ill-fated kick.

SUNDAY, NOV. 17
at Kansas City Chiefs
(NBC) 11:00 a.m. MST

The Broncos begin their second two-week, AstroTurf-covered road trip when they take on the Chiefs in mid-November. The Denver-Kansas City game has been an Arrowhead Stadium sellout over the last two years, and those crowds witnessed two great performances by the Chiefs' defense and the Broncos' John Elway. The series has split in Kansas City over the last six seasons.

LAST TIME IN KANSAS CITY (12/9/90) — Kansas City sent the Broncos to their sixth-straight defeat with a 31-20 victory. Elway passed for a season-high 328 yards and two scores, while ex-Bronco Steve DeBerg threw for 254 yards and three TDs. After the Broncos had pulled to within four points, at 24-20, early in the final quarter, DeBerg led his team on a 13-play, 80-yard drive that ended in a touchdown, putting the game out of reach.

SUNDAY, NOV. 24
at Seattle Seahawks (NBC) 2:00 MST

Week 12 finds the Broncos in the noisy Kingdome, taking on the Seahawks. Seattle has won four of the last five games at home against Denver and has an overall 8-6 lead in the Kingdome.

LAST TIME IN SEATTLE (12/23/90) — The Seahawks won last year's game in the Kingdome by the skin of their beaks. Down 17-12 in the final minute, the Broncos attempted three straight "Hail Mary" passes into the end zone and the final one was caught by the Broncos' Mike Young for an apparent touchdown. However, in their haste to get set up after the previous pass, two of Denver's wide receivers were still moving when the ball was snapped, and a penalty nullified the play.

SUNDAY, DEC. 1
NEW ENGLAND PATRIOTS
(NBC) 2:00 MST

The Broncos begin the stretch drive of the season at home against the Patriots. New England hasn't won in Denver since 1968, when the franchise played in Boston, their current head coach, Dick McPherson, was in charge of the Broncos' running backs, and the new Patriot defensive coordinator, Joe Collier, was a year away from beginning his 20-year stint in Denver.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (12/17/88)
 — The Broncos closed out the 1988 campaign on a winning note by defeating the Patriots 21-10 in Denver. Running back Tony Dorsett gained 86 yards on 10 carries in what would be the final game of his career, while Sammy Winder added 64 yards on the ground, scoring twice.

SUNDAY, DEC. 8
at Cleveland (NBC) 11:00 a.m. MST

The Broncos face another former assistant coach when Bill Belichick's Browns host the team in week 14. Cleveland has won the last two regular season games, while Denver took a 37-21 decision in the 1989 AFC Championship Game. The Browns victory in the 1989 regular season ended a 10-game losing streak to the Broncos that began in 1975.

LAST TIME IN CLEVELAND (10/1/89) — Matt Bahr kicked a wind-aided 48-yard field goal with no time left to give Cleveland a 16-13 win over Denver. The game was marked by referee Tom Dooley's decision in the fourth quarter to switch field direction of the two teams after the Broncos' huddle near the infamous "Dawg Pound" was pelted by batteries, eggs, and rocks. The switch effectively put the wind at the Browns' back for three quarters of the game.

PHOENIX CARDINALS (CBS) 2:00 MST

The Cardinals make their first appearance in Mile High Stadium since 1977 in the second-to-last game of the year. Denver has never lost in this limited series, posting a 2-0-1 record. The two teams last faced each other late in the 1989 campaign, when the Broncos clinched home field advantage throughout the playoffs with a 37-0 drubbing of Phoenix.

LAST TIME IN DENVER (9/18/77)
 — Denver notched a 7-0 over the Cardinals on the opening day of the first championship season in Bronco history. Otis Armstrong scored the game's only touchdown on a 10-yard run in the third quarter. This was the first game for the Broncos under head coach Red Miller and the first for Craig Morton in a Denver uniform.

SUNDAY, DEC. 22
at San Diego (NBC) 2:00 MST

The 1991 regular season comes to a close for the Broncos in San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium, site of two straight Denver losses. The Chargers have a 6-4 series lead in home games played since 1981, and three of Denver's victories came in succession in 1986, 1987, and 1988.

LAST TIME IN SAN DIEGO (11/11/90) — The Chargers scored a 19-7 victory over a flat Denver squad last year, dropping the Broncos' record to 3-6. Denver was held to just 211 total yards, including just 57 on the ground, while San Diego racked up 340 total yards and running back Marion Butts averaged 7.1 yards per carry while totaling 114 yards.
